SECTION II - BACKGROUND
The mission of the Office of the D.C. Auditor is to support the Council of the District of Columbia by conducting performance audits that improve the economy, efficiency, and accountability of the D.C. Government. From time to time we contract with outside consulting firms for audits and evaluations. The agency has independent procurement authority and is not bound by the Procurement Practices Reform Act.\textsuperscript{1} As part of a commitment to transparency and competitive contracting, we typically seek one or more proposals before entering into a contract for consulting services. The agency has broad authority including “access to all books, accounts, records, reports, findings, and all other papers, things, or property belonging to or in use by” all sectors of the District government.

Pursuant to a request by Councilmember Mary M. Cheh and one-time FY 2018 fiscal year funding provided in the District’s FY 2018 budget, ODCA is seeking proposals from qualified and experienced individuals/firms to conduct research to review the District’s current methodology for estimating enrollment in D.C. Public Schools, compare that methodology with best practices for student enrollment projections, estimate future enrollment based on the District’s demographic trends and propose a methodology by which the District can effectively forecast future enrollment.

This will be a fixed-price contract, commencing immediately following the contract award date. All work must be completed no later than September 15, 2018.

SECTION III--SCOPE OF WORK
The research and analysis will include but not be limited to:

1. Review and assess the processes by which the District of Columbia Public Schools, Office of the State Superintendent of Education, and Deputy Mayor for Education have predicted the enrollment in D.C. Public Schools with a focus on school years 2015-16, 2016-17 and 2017-18.

2. Research and describe best practices in enrollment projections and assess the extent to which the District has utilized best practices in the last three school years, including the manner in which District of Columbia enrollment projections have been utilized in making budget decisions and facilities decisions. Please identify jurisdictions that may be comparable to the District, and include best practices for 5- and 10-year public school enrollment projection methodology that currently informs facility planning in other communities that are experiencing population growth and have a high proportion of students attending charter and independent schools. Include an explanation on how other jurisdictions adjust their own 5- and 10-year enrollment projections based on annual reviews.

3. Conduct a demographic analysis of the District’s population including reasons for and areas of growth and change in recent years, with a focus on school-age populations. Describe the historic trends in public, public charter, and private school enrollment in the District, and trends here and elsewhere that have been shown to have had an impact on choice in enrollment including such things as economic downturns, growth in average wages, and perceptions of success in school reform.

4. Provide a 5-year and a 10-year enrollment projection by grade level, pre-school through 12th grade and include a projected breakdown based on best-available data for D.C. Public Schools, D.C. Public Charter Schools, and D.C. independent schools. To the extent practicable, provide as detailed a geographical breakdown by grade as possible, including 5- and 10-year enrollment projections for each DCPS school.

5. Propose a replicable methodology for the District government to use going forward to projecting enrollment with the assumption that such projections will continue to be utilized in budgeting and facilities planning.

6. Produce a draft and final written report including the analyses detailed above. The final report by the consultant will be released publicly by ODCA accompanied by a letter of introduction by the D.C. Auditor.
